

TRAVERS SMITH

Tuesday 24th January 2017, 3CL Travers Smith Lunchtime Seminar

Professor Klaus Ulrich Schmolke (Friedrich-Alexander-University Erlangen-Nuremberg)

'Whistleblowing: Incentives and Situational Determinants – A Laboratory Experiment'

Law makers increasingly try to capitalize on individuals having acquired knowledge of corporate crimes or other misconduct by inducing them to blow the whistle. In a laboratory experiment we measured the effectiveness of incentives (fine, reward, command) as well as situational determinants on the willingness to report such misconduct to a sanctioning authority. In the talk the experiment's design and results will be presented and discussed.

Time: 1pm (lunch available from 12.45pm) Venue: B16